Legend — Race Regression Report key (16-May WRD 2, 8.0, D):

- Projected Pace: Very slow (red), Slow, Moderate, Fast, Very fast (green), Unknown (gray)
- Track Surface: Dirt (D), Synthetic dirt (D+), Turf (T)
- Date, track, race number, and distance (in furlongs).
- $= Positive ROI. ?= Positive ROI at fair odds or greater.
- Regression rating in top 3 / Positive regression rating
- Trainer (overall win rate)
- Weight difference compared to last race.
- Last-race late speed ration (LSR). Those in a light green box are very good; those in a dark green box are excellent. Figures in red do not meet the race par.
- Track of last race and days past. (Green lettering indicates the race was at today's exact distance).
- Running Style (half-mile): Front (F), Mid-to-front (M/F), Mid-to-rear (M/R), Rear (R). Note: Style ratings are color-coded in the same way the projected pace is. Horses with a question mark after their designated style have fewer than three rated starts. A plus sign indicates the horse is the sole frontrunner in the field.
- Boxed figures denote a significant advantage.
- Last, best, and overall par speed figures. A bold figure indicates the best in the field, while figures in green produce profits in certain circumstances.
- Win rate.
- Class rating (those highlighted in green are particularly good). Arrows indicate the purse value of today's race compared to the horse's last race.
- Form cycle. Green is positive, gray is neutral, red is negative.
- Comments and fair odds.

COMMENTS: On paper, WINWARD FLO looks best, but two drops in class and a 74-day layoff since being claimed by trainer Jonathan Wong, who is no slouch, demands one look elsewhere.

The "jock with the clock" is no longer a thing, and BELIEVING provides a perfect example of this. Following a powerful wire-to-wire win (-5 early speed ration) after she was claimed by Larry Smith, the daughter of Street Sense jumped up in class and, once again, contested the pace. Only this time she recorded an insane -16 ESR. Needless to say, she backed up badly and finished last.

Today, the projected ESR is -8 and Believing can get an easy lead — if she wants it, jockey Perry Ouzts may be gun shy now. If that happens, I think she's likely to win (she can win stalking too, but loses a key tactical advantage). MY ANGELICA appears to be the main danger.

BET(S): WIN on 4.
